Worth Poly™ Polyester Laser Labels

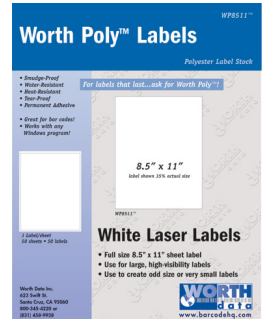

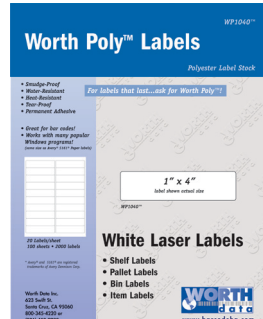

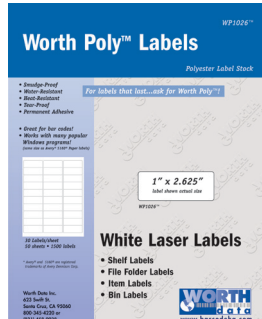

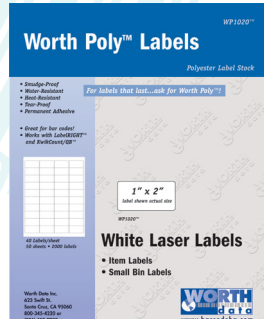

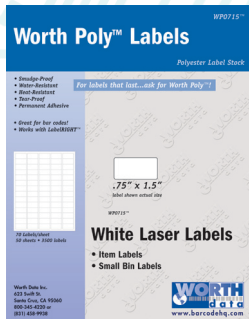

Worth Poly™ Polyester Label Stock from Worth Data

Worth Poly™ is a laser printer polyester label stock necessary to produce durable, long-lasting labels such as shelf labels and labels to be used outdoors. Paper label stock is too easily scuffed, damaged, and stained to use on shelf labels, which are normally expected to last for years. Labelling shelves is too expensive to have to repeat every several months, so we are stocking and selling seven sizes of polyester label stock for use with laser printers, (not DeskJet printers). The toner from the laser printer fuses into the polyester material, creating a very durable bar code that can survive many readings and harsh treatment. Seven sizes of label stock are available:

Worth Poly™ is made from a special white, matte finish, heat stabilized polyester film designed for laser printers. When printed on a laser printer, the resulting label is heat resistant, water-resistant, light resistant, scuff resistant, smudge resistant, and stain resistant. These labels are ideal for any labels that you want to last through rough handling, repeated usage, outdoor usage, or other harsh environments. The permanent adhesive is designed to keep your label adhered to wood, metal, plastic, or glass for years. You pay a little more, but you get a lot more label for the money.

If you plan on using Worth Poly on a COLOR laser printer, please call us for some sample sheets before you buy. Some COLOR lasers work great (QMS Magicolor) while others have toner adhesion problems (HP 4500). We recommend testing sample sheets with your particular printer before you purchase full packages.
